

No matter what your passion is, there is a club on campus that could be a perfect fit for you! Joining a club is a great way to get involved.

At the Quad-Cities Campus, a Club & Organization Fair is set for Thursday, Aug. 30 in the Hawk's Nest (Building 4, second floor) from 10 a.m. to noon. You can visit club booths and create personalized kindness rocks.

Enjoy free Chick-fil-A for lunch and hear about Creating a Kindness Culture from guest speaker Gabriella van Rij right afterwards, from noon to 1 p.m.

At both campuses, there are a wide variety of clubs that are free to join and participate in. Meet new friends, build your résumé and have fun!

Don't miss out, get involved! Black Hawk College has agriculture, science, cultural, military, recreational and social activist clubs, as well as a Student Government Association at each campus.

Black Hawk College has agriculture, science, cultural, military, recreational and social activist clubs, as well as a Student Government Association at each campus.

Clean Sphere promotes environmental appreciation, awareness,

If you see a need for a new club, you can even create your own club. Talk to the coordinator on your campus for more information on that process!

Jana Koch, Student Retention Coordinator, says getting involved is a great way to make friends, have fun, and develop your skills.

“Whether you join as a member or choose to take on a position of leadership, simply taking part will enhance your academic experience!”

and stewardship among the students, faculty, staff and alumni at the Quad-Cities Campus. she says.

On Aug. 24, East Campus Club Day was held to help students explore their options, but there is still plenty of time to get involved!

Vashti Berry, Coordinator of Orientation and Student Life at East Campus, has a saying come to mind when she thinks about the value of participating in student life:

“Tell me and I forget. Teach me and I remember. Involve me and I learn.”

Vashti notes that Black Hawk College enhances and develops lifelong learners by providing student engagement activities both inside and outside of the classroom.

“Being involved in student clubs and organizations on campus can enable students to become active and productive citizens of their communities and can develop students’ social and cultural capital,” she says.

Participating in a club is a great way to experience personal growth and learn. Consider joining one or two!

Quad-Cities Campus

Jana Koch

Building 4, Room 202A (second floor), near the Hawk’s Nest

309-796-5177

kochj@bhc.edu

QC Campus Clubs

East Campus

Vashti Berry

The Science & Math Club at East Campus welcomes students who share a common interest in the sciences.

Building A, Room 247

309-854-1711

berryv@bhc.edu

East Campus Clubs

Share this:

- Click to share on Twitter \(Opens in new window\)
- Click to share on Facebook \(Opens in new window\)
- Click to email a link to a friend \(Opens in new window\)
- Click to print \(Opens in new window\)
- More